The UKSGS has run for ten rounds since 2012 with Round 10 marking the end of the previously announced scheme. From Penzance to Thurso, the scheme has funded theatres in England, Scotland and Wales. Successful projects covered a range of improvements to facilities so that theatre buildings are more accessible for disabled audiences, performers and staff.

Jon Morgan, Director of the Theatres Trust said "The range of organisations that this scheme has supported reflects how a small grant can go a long way to protect the continued use of a theatre. The generous support of our funders has allowed us to extend this scheme and we look forward to helping more theatres to thrive and serve their communities.

New funding has been received from Andrew Lloyd Webber Foundation and the Charles Michael Holloway Charitable Trust which will allow the Theatres Trust to extend this scheme by a further 3 years.

Madeleine Lloyd Webber, Trustee of the Andrew Lloyd Webber Foundation, said "The UK Theatres Small Grants Scheme provides a lifeline to theatres across the country enabling them to undertake vital works to keep them open and accessible to all. I am delighted to see other donors join us to support these important buildings in the tenth round of funding."

Tobacco Factory Theatres is located on the first floor of the Tobacco Factory building in Bristol. In a complete transformation of the current footprint of Tobacco Factory Theatres, a capital project will reconfigure the existing space to create a new flexible and multi-purpose studio. Theatres Trust will support the construction of a new dimmer room to jointly support the existing space and the new studio. The new studio space will increase the number of performances presented and create a more sustainable business model for Tobacco Factory Theatres.

Criterion Theatre, Coventry is a volunteer run theatre. The supported project involves the immediate removal of the asbestos roof and gable ends of the scenery store to the rear of the theatre building, replacing it with a new scenery store. This will deal with the urgent need to remove asbestos from a deteriorating part of the building whilst allowing the theatre to continue producing its shows.
