ANDREW LLOYD WEBBER FOUNDATION

GRANT RECIPIENT ACTIVITY REPORT

Why are we asking for a report –

At Andrew Lloyd Webber Foundation, we monitor and evaluate the projects we support and will ask you to complete a Grant Recipient Activity Report at the end of your project, or after each year of support, whichever is sooner.

Our main interest in gathering the information we ask for is to understand what works well to tackle the problems you identified in your grant application. We are equally interested in any challenges you may have encountered during the project and how you might address these in the future.

We will use this knowledge to evaluate how we are achieving our aims and objectives, to make sure progress is being made and to shape our future funding priorities to target areas and practices that lead to successful outcomes.

We are also interested in any ideas you may have of other ways the Foundation could support you, other than by way of a financial grant.

We ask for succinct answers to each of the following questions and for you to complete a statistics form. If you have already produced a full evaluation of your project for another funder or for your own use, we would be pleased to receive this in place of this report. Please contact your Foundation representative to discuss this.

You were given £100 in addition to the grant award towards the costs of supplying high resolution images, if you haven't already sent us images, please can you send some with the report, we love to see them it brings the projects to life.
